Some of the darkest episodes in human history have been when a type of person was dehumanised.

Africans were dehumanised to justify slavery.
Jews were dehumanised to justify the holocaust.

Today, the unborn child is dehumanised to justify abortion.

Our Pro-Life Policy

Life is precious. All human life has intrinsic worth and the measure of a civilised society is how we treat those who are most vulnerable.

We affirm the value of human life in the womb. Abortion as a means of birth control is morally unjustifiable. Ultimately, we would like to see the law reflect this, but immediate steps could include offering independent counselling to those considering an abortion, reducing the current 24 week limit for abortions and preventing abortion on grounds of disability after 24 weeks. We would ensure that young people in school are presented with the facts about abortion and the possible emotional consequences.

We would invest in support for women facing unwanted pregnancy, helping them to establish a strong network of support and encouraging alternatives such as fostering or adoption.

Currently, no Holyrood or UK party is willing to start the debate by standing up to the pro-abortion consensus. The Greens, Labour and Lib Dems in Scotland are pushing for the full decriminalisation of abortion. This entails abortion on demand up to full term. The SNP government funds organisations that campaign for this as well. The Conservatives have no policy, but they are certainly not a pro-life party and votes for them will not defend the lives of the unborn.

The Scottish Family Party stands up for the unborn and is unashamedly pro-life.

Filling the Void in Scottish Politics

The fundamental values that underpin our society are being eroded. We present a better vision for the future of Scotland.

We offer fresh perspectives that could help solve deeply ingrained problems, and policies that could enable people of all ages to flourish as they pursue their path through life.

Our foundational philosophy is quite distinct from the current Holyrood parties.

We seek to bring common sense, wisdom, justice, truth, decency, integrity and virtue into political debate and, ultimately, into the Scottish Parliament.

Please join us in making our dream a reality. You can become a member through our website. We'd value your support and we'd love to meet you.
